Dear Ms. Barajas-Ochoa, I actually am one of probably very few people that had my glyphosate levels checked at a health conference. The results were shocking. I am at the low of the severe end of the scale. I eat mostly organic and very selective. I can't imagine how damaged other people's bodies are compared to mine. We need strong, ethical people to put an end to this chemical madness. I am so greatly saddened by the level of corruption, greed and atrocity that has befallen our beautiful planet, food supply and nature, spoiling it for all to so much detriment. So much sorrow for future generations unless things change NOW.
